

Antifriction bearings equipped with sensors

Abstract

An antifriction bearing equipped with sensors (4, 5, 6) for measuring the length change in the rolling contact between antifriction element (3) and ring (1), characterized in that region vectors (7, 8, 9) are formed, which pass via a defined interface to the evaluation unit disposed outside the antifriction bearing.

Figure 1